

...was he walked into the ball room I fear I almost fainted. He looked awfully dashing in his Air Force uniform, and I could tell I wasn't the only girl in the room who thought so. It was his eyes you see. His dark brown eyes... I swear you could hear my heart beating 10 feet away! My stomach was so awash with butterflies I dared not even look his way. But he apparently was looking mine, and as he walked towards me smiling I knew I'd remember this night forever... Everyone we look after at Care UK has a story to tell. Some sad, some happy, some which may even change the way you look at life. By becoming a Care Worker, you'll get to hear them all. ...and then the bombs began to fall. By the time the first one hit, we'd all made it out of our bunks and were cowering on the floor. All of us knew straight away that if we didn't make it to our planes, we'd be goners. I remember thinking to myself, we're never going to make it! It's at least 500 yards to that hanger. And that's when we made a dash for it. All of us running hell for leather, through the explosions and the flying rubble, none of us knowing whether we were going to live or die... Everyone we look after at Care UK has a story to tell. Some sad, some happy, some which may even change the way you look at life. By becoming a Care Worker, you'll get to hear them all. Grandad's always telling me about the 1953 Cup Final - it's my favourite story and I know it off by heart now! The freshly cut grass, the sun in sky, 100,000 people Cheering like mad, seven goals, Stanley Matthews playing like a dream, Mortensen's hat-trick, Perry's last-minute winner - he remembers it like it was yesterday. It's just yesterday he has trouble with. Everyone we look after at Care UK has a story to tell and so do their relatives. Some of these are sad, some are happy, some may even change the way you look at life. By becoming a Care Worker, you'll get to hear them all.
